FOUNDATION

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS

ADVOCACY AND CIVIC ENGAGEMENT
LEARNING COMMUNITY

REQUEST OVERVIEW

Health Forward Foundation recently announced two new open funding opportunities to support civic engagement and advocacy coalitions. We will award up to $4.5 million in grants to be distributed in 2023 and 2024 in support of these efforts. This funding is designed to advance Health Forward's purpose plan in alignment with our policy agendas for Kansas and Missouri. These funding opportunities support and build community power to advance health equity, racial equity, and economic inclusion. Civic engagement is one of many social factors that influence the health of people and communities given its connection to increasing both health equity and racial equity. Further, we believe that advocacy and coalition building are central to Health Forward's purpose of building and amplifying community power.

Working in partnership with Health Foundation and our funded partners, this request for proposals is for programmatic and learning support to develop, facilitate, and support a learning community of civic engagement and advocacy partners.

Health Forward views equity as a fundamental element of social justice and integral in our purpose and to our mission. We recognize that racial equity and economic inclusion overlap. We cannot have one without the other. We also recognize that our effort to build racial equity and economically just systems commits us to change the institutional and political systems under which we all live. These changes mean healthier people, an increase in community power, and the creation of equitable and just places.

To guide Health Forward in its work, and to help its partners better understand its priorities, the foundation is focusing its work within four purpose areas: People, Power, Place, and Platform. Learn more about these purpose areas on our website.

BACKGROUND

Health Forward is seeking to transition how it approaches learning and evaluation. Instead of evaluating whether a program was successful on a grant-by-grant basis, we are transitioning to a more inclusive learning approach working with funded partners to define impact and metrics, at the systems, social, and community levels. Further, we are also reimagining how we learn from this work, what this learning might look like, how it informs the work, and how we share it with our communities.

As practice partner in the Equitable Evaluation Initiative, Health Forward's approach to evaluation goes beyond learning what worked and what didn't, and why. We see learning as also being in the service of advancing equity, that must reflect the complexity and nuances of our communities, and being inclusive of systems and drivers that impact race inequality and economic injustice.

Health Forward sees civic engagement as one of many social factors that influence the health of people and communities given its connection to increasing both health equity and racial equity. Civic engagement is central to Health Forward's purpose of building and amplifying community power. Further, we believe coalitions as effective means to pool and leverage limited resources to achieve a common goal by building collective advocacy shared interests.

The geographic scope for this work includes Health Forward's service area: Allen, Johnson, and Wyandotte counties in Kansas; Cass, Jackson, and Lafayette counties in Missouri; and Kansas City, Missouri (including portions of Clay and Platte counties).
